scoutPRO Adds Import Roster Feature, Automatically Optimizing Fantasy Football Rosters Based on League Rules

High-tech enhancements improve scoutPRO's roster optimization functionality and help GMs accurately identify which players to start

ATLANTA (August 22, 2013) – Today, Competitive Sports Analysis (CSA), leading provider of sports analytics, unveiled an import roster feature for its signature product, scoutPRO® Fantasy Football. The new tool provides fantasy football general managers (GMs) automatic league customization for roster optimization, and makes scoutPRO the only fantasy football software product on the market with this level of sophistication.

With just a few clicks of a mouse, subscribers can now import a roster, and scoutPRO's software will automatically optimize the roster based on the subscriber's individual league rules and scoring system. Further, the import roster feature supports all of the top fantasy football sites and provides recommendations based on scoutPRO's patented fantasy point predictions. Click here to watch a video demo of the new import roster tool.

When a roster is imported to scoutPRO, the new tool will recognize what positions a GM's league has, and use that information to optimize each roster based specifically on the GM's league's rules, even FLEX positions. In fact, scoutPRO's software will now recognize WR/TE, RB/WR or any other type of FLEX position.

"Our new import roster feature gives busy GMs a leg up on the competition as the 2013 NFL season begins," said Diane Bloodworth, founder and CEO of CSA. "Our team of technologists and high stakes experts are constantly developing new ways to provide the most accurate fantasy football predictions. This import roster tool is a great addition to our patented software, and helps us achieve our goal of providing the most reliable fantasy football recommendations on the market."

The new feature is only available to scoutProjector subscribers, which costs $29.99 and also includes exclusive VIP access to scoutPRO's high stakes expert, Nelson Sousa. GMs can click here to subscribe today.

About Competitive Sports Analysis
Competitive Sports Analysis (CSA) is a leading provider of predictive data for sports. In 2011, CSA launched its initial product, scoutPRO^{TM} Fantasy Football, which gives general managers highly accurate, league-winning predictions through smart, patented software that consistently beats the competition and revolutionizes roster management. Today, scoutPRO Fantasy Football is one of the best tools on the market with a more than 60 percent accuracy rating. After much consumer and industry praise, the company debuted scoutPRO Fantasy Baseball in the spring of 2013.
